Weddings.

Miss Janet Brown Fawcett, daughter of Mrs. Edward Stabler Fawcett, and Mr. Lewis Cheeseman, formerly of this city, but now of Scranton, Pa., were married in St. Paul's Church last night at 8:30. At the appointed hour the vested choir of forty voices entered the church door singing the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin." Immediately following them came the ushers, Mr. Henry Buckley Rodman, of New York; Mr. John Douglas Brown, of Malcom West; Edward Stabler Fawcett, following the bridesmaids, Miss Susan Ellis Douglas, the bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Edward Stabler Fawcett, of Malcom West.

The bride was dressed in white satin and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids were dressed in white and carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums. The groom was dressed in a dark suit and carried a sword.

The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. P. P. Phillips, rector of the church. The church was beautifully decorated with white chrysanthemums and palms. The bride and groom were seated at the altar, and the ceremony proceeded with the reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom were then pronounced man and wife, and the ceremony concluded with the singing of the "Agnus Dei."

The wedding reception was held at the home of the bride, Mr. Edward Stabler Fawcett, of Malcom West. The bride and groom were surrounded by a large number of guests, including many of the bride's relatives and friends. The reception was a very pleasant affair, and the bride and groom were the center of attention. The wedding was a very successful one, and the bride and groom were both very happy.

The wedding of Miss Rosa Emma Appich, second daughter of Mrs. Anna M. Appich, and Mr. Wm. MacArthur Green, of the Alexandria National Bank, took place last night at eight o'clock at Emanuel Lutheran church, Rev. J. J. May officiating. The bride entered the church on the arm of her uncle, Mr. William Stuenkel, of Lynchburg, who gave her in marriage. She was attended by her sister, Miss Charlotte Appich, who acted as maid of honor, and Mr. W. P. Taylor was best man. The music was by Professor Hart, of Washington. The church was decorated with palms, white chrysanthemums and Southern amaranth. The bride's gown was white messaline over white tulle, of princess design, trimmed with baby Irish and Duchess lace. Her flowers were a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore white chiffon over pink tulle. The bridesmaids were Misses Rose Brett, of Washington, and Ruth Appich and Bessie E. Green, of this city. Their gowns were pink chiffon over pink tulle. The ushers were E. W. Briggs, of Washington, and R. E. Green and George P. Aitchison, of this city. Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's mother on King street which was attended by the bride and out-of-town guests, after which the couple left for a northern tour. On their return they will live in this city.

Most quietly at highnoon Wednesday, November the twenty-first, the distinguished name of Armistead was allied to that of the Italian, de' Nesti. Agnes Campbell Gordon, daughter of the late James Ryan Armistead, and great-granddaughter of Colonel George Armistead was married at "Bird Law," the country residence of her grandfather, Henry Buchanan Bird, to Adolfo Napoleone Francesco de' Nesti, the Italian sculptor, of the noble house of de' Nesti, of Florence, Italy.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frederic Orisz, of Edinburgh, Scotland, a special friend of the family, now visiting in this country. After the wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. de' Nesti left for a trip. Upon their return the young couple will reside in Washington, Mr. de' Nesti being engaged upon a number of magnificent statues to adorn the new municipal building.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Boyer, No. 221 I street, northwest Washington, was the scene of a pretty wedding on the evening of November 20, when Miss Cecelia Stonnell and Mr. Robert Grierson Bird were married by Rev. W. H. Ballinger, pastor of Calvary Methodist Church, South, Georgetown, assisted by Rev. Chas. Lynch, pastor of the Methodist Church of Occoquan district, Prince William county, Virginia. A large company of friends and relatives of the couple were present from Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood B. Stonnell, of Woodbridge, Prince William county, Virginia, which also is the native county of the bridegroom, but who is now a well-known resident of Bowie, Maryland. The parlor was profusely decorated with growing plants, palms, ferns and flowers. The bride came in the drawing room with her father. She was crowned in point d'esprit with French valences and Venice applique, and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

Her sister, Miss Virginia Stonnell, attended her as maid of honor. She wore organza trimmed with Meekle lace and carried pink chrysanthemums. Miss Marian Lohr was the flower girl, dressed in Swiss mull and carried yellow chrysanthemums. Mr. Edwin L. Cockrell, of Washington, uncle of the bride, was best man. Mrs. A. A. Lohr played and the Misses Vierkorn, of Alexandria, sang, in sweet strains, the wedding march from "Lohengrin." After the ceremony an informal reception followed with refreshments and general merrymaking amid expressions of good wishes for the happy couple. They were the recipients of many valuable and handsome presents. At 10 p. m. they left to spend their honeymoon in the South. After their return, about December 1, they will be at home to their friends at 221 I street, northwest, Washington, for a few weeks, after which they will reside permanently at Riverdale, Maryland.

Educational Meeting.

The meeting last night in the Opera House in the interests of education was attended by a comparatively small, but appreciative audience. In the assembly were city officials, members of the City School Board, public school teachers, scholars and others. A number of pupils of the public schools were also present. In addition to the speakers there were on the platform Capt. Herbert Bryant, chairman of the school board; M. D. Hall, superintendent of schools of Fairfax county, and James E. Clements, superintendent of schools of Alexandria county.

Mr. K. Kemper, Superintendent of Public Schools, presided, and shortly after 8 o'clock introduced Mr. James R. Caton, Delegate to the Legislature from this city and county, who in a brief address gave a rapid history of educational work in the State since the days of Thomas Jefferson, as well as the interest shown in the same from time to time by the Legislature of Virginia. He dwelt at some length upon the salaries of public educators and announced that he was heartily in favor of the State paying teachers such salary as he thought they deserved for their labors.

Mr. Caton was followed by Mr. Lewis H. Machen, State Senator from this district, who followed in the same lines. He also gave a succinct history of the legislation which has been enacted in the cause of education, as well as certain contemplated measures for the betterment of the public schools of the State. Mr. Charles P. Maphis, a member of the State Board of Examiners for this, the Fifteenth, district, was the next speaker. His remarks in the main were in reference to the high schools of the State and their importance as filling in the gaps between the ordinary public schools and the University of Virginia. Dr. Bruce R. Payne, of the University of Virginia, was subsequently introduced by Mr. Kemper. He made a few felicitous remarks at the outset, but soon began to speak in earnest on high schools which has for some time engrossed his interest. He vividly portrayed their utility and urged their adoption in Alexandria.

The suggestions of the speakers were received with every token of appreciation. During the evening there was vocal and instrumental music, under the supervision of Mr. Geo. B. Kennedy, with Saunders & Stayman, of Washington. Miss Hughes, of Washington, rendered a solo which was greatly enjoyed, while the performance upon a fine Weber piano by Mr. W. Gray Hawley, and that of Mr. Stanton, violinist, were commendable.

Tuesday Night's Accident.

The accident near Freestone, on the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad, Tuesday night was more serious than at first reported. Two men were killed. Northern mails were delayed three hours and ten minutes and Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac trains were diverted by way of the Chesapeake and Ohio as far south as Doswell as a result of the wreck.

General Superintendent C. W. Culp yesterday afternoon gave out the following statement regarding the accident: "The accident occurred on the Washington-Southern Railway about 9 p. m., Tuesday night. The double track on the Washington-Southern is not yet completed, and a piece of track between Cherry Hill and Marumac is operated as single track. The operator at the south end of the piece of single track failed to conform to instructions issued to him in regard to holding a northward freight train, which resulted in a collision between two freight trains, causing considerable damage and the death of brakeman J. W. Taylor and an unidentified man supposed to be a tramp. Employees E. W. Curtis, E. W. Bland and W. E. Thompson were slightly injured. Passenger trains were somewhat delayed in consequence of being run via the Chesapeake and Ohio and Southern Railway between Doswell and Alexandria.

The engine of the southbound freight had been in a wreck early Tuesday morning when it had made its northern trip to Washington, and the wrecking train had been ordered to do repair work incident thereto. Just beyond Freestone bridge is a piece of single track for a short distance, over which all trains are compelled to run because of the unfinished double track at that point.

The wrecking train was proceeding north on this track and had just crossed the bridge when the heavy southbound freight was met head-on. The two engines plunged into each other, and stood locked at an angle of forty-five degrees. In the caboose was brakeman Taylor. This caboose, strange to say, was next to the engine instead of at the rear of the train. Mr. Taylor was caught between the caboose and engine and crushed to death. The caboose looked like a pile of kindling wood. The unknown tramp who was killed had both his legs cut off.

The following is a list of those who made donations to the eucharie party given by the Council of Jewish Women at the Young Men's Sodality Lyceum Hall Tuesday night: Messrs. River Notes.

A diver was at work on the ferry steamer Callahan at the foot of Prince street this morning. As has been stated, the rudder of the steamer became misplaced shortly after noon on Tuesday and it was necessary to withdraw her from the route until repairs shall have been made. The steamer Woodbury is still running on the ferry route.

The steamer Anne Arundel, which left her wharf at the foot of Cameron street for Baltimore Tuesday night and ran aground at the White House, was pulled into deep water by a government tugboat last night and she afterwards proceeded down the river.

The four-masted schooner Henry F. Kreger, from Port Tampa, Fla., with phosphate rock for the Alexandria Fertilizer and Chemical Company, has arrived.

The barge Lily of the West is being loaded by Samol & Co. with lumber for Port Washington.

Pleasant Entertainment.

The Lyceum Dramatic Club was very pleasantly entertained by the Y. M. S. L. in their hall on Duke street last night. Solos were rendered by Mrs. A. D. Montier and Miss Mary Nugent and Messrs. Forrest Birrell, Martin Greene and John Lucas. Miss Catherine Birrell gave a very beautiful recitation. Addresses were made by several members of the Y. M. S. L. Mr. A. D. Montier, who is a director of the dramatic club, spoke of the highly successful efforts of the club in the past and hoped for a continuance of the same in the future. Mr. W. H. Broughton, the caterer, served many good things tempting to the inner man. At a late hour the company separated and repaired to their homes well pleased with the evening spent with the Y. M. S. L.

A Correction.

It was stated in the Police Court proceedings yesterday that James Harrington had been arrested charged with larceny and that his case had been postponed. James Harrington is the name of the young man referred to, and it appears that he was arrested for disorderly conduct and that later an agent of larceny pictures urged a charge of larceny against him, alleging that a picture left in his possession for a lady had not been received by the latter. His friends claim that he is innocent of the charge. Harrington is from Charlottesville and during the past few years has been working at painting in this city. He has heretofore borne a good reputation.

Street Improvements.

The improvements at the foot of Prince street are nearing completion. A substantial cobblestone roadway will soon occupy the space between Union street and the river. Mr. A. D. Brockett, who has recently erected a brick building on the south side of the street, is having granolithic pavements laid in front of all the buildings occupied by him.

The square on Fairfax street, between King and Cameron, is now being paved with vitrified brick. After this work shall have been completed granolithic pavements will be laid on the east side of the square from Fayette alley to Cameron street.

Strike Inevitable.

A general building strike in Washington Monday is now regarded as certain. Although the Master Builders' Association has consented to a conference with the committee of the Allied Trades Unions, to take place Friday night, little hope is expressed that any agreement will be reached, because it is the consensus of opinion of the master builders that the question of the open shop, which the committee is insisting shall be left out of the list of matters to be arbitrated, is the most important of all, and they are determined that it shall be submitted.

A called meeting of Potomac Lodge of Odd Fellows will be held on next Saturday night to receive Roland E. Chase, Grand Master of the State of Virginia. Scepta Lodge and all members of the organization in this city are expected to be present on the occasion.
